

Did You Know?

What is the Digital Marketplaces for Secondary Raw Materials?

Digital marketplaces for secondary raw materials facilitate the exchange of recycled materials between different stakeholders in the construction industry. These platforms connect suppliers of recycled materials with construction companies looking to reduce their environmental footprint. This not only reduces the need for virgin materials, but also lowers the cost and environmental impact of construction projects.

